Nov. 2435

THURSDAY, MARCH 31. 1743.

Yesterday arriv'd a Mail from Holland.

Petersbourg, March 12.

W O Couriers arrived here Yesterday, one from Stockholm, the other from Keil; but we know nothing with Certainty as to the Contents of their Dispatches. It is however believed, that by the former there came Advice of the Resolution taken in Sweden to revive the Union of Calmar, and to throw themselves into the Arms of Denmark; in which we are confirmed by the holding two Councils Admiralty since the Arrival of that Express, and at the first of the last, Orders were issued for arming our Fleet, and this Morning it was declar'd, that General Keith should command the Army in Chief in Finland, that 15,000 Men should be sent into Livonia, 10,000 into Estonica, and 10,000 into Ingermania, which as if the Administration apprehended that the Swedes would be assisted by some other Power in the Campaign. The Court has lately received the most Assurances from the Grand Signior, as well as Shah Nadir, of their sincere Intention to keep inviolably the Treaties subsisting with them.

Stockholm, March 21. Count Lewenhaupt grounding Defence on the Third Article of his Instructions, by which he was enjoin'd to make no no Motions whatsoever but by Advice of a Council of War, and insisting, that his Retreat from FredericksHam was in pursuance of the Resolution of such a Council, not only Major-General Didron, but all the other Officers who voted affirmatively in that Council of War, have been arrested Order of the Secret Committee. The new Election of Successor to the Crown, remains fix'd for the 31st, the two dominant Parties at present are those for the Prince of Denmark and the Duke de Deux Ponts. As as are in the Interest of the Duke of Holstein-Uten, without declaring themselves, endeavour to get the thing deferred, till an Answer can be obtain'd from Petersburg to some Dispatches lately sent thither on the subject of this Election.

Copenhagen, March 25. It is now pretty evident that the military Preparations, which were at first thought to be intended against Sweden, are to employ'd in her defence, in case the present Dyet should renew the Union of Calmar, and elect, as M. Birkenstein gives us hopes they will, our Hereditary Prince Successor to the Crown of Sweden. Baron Korff, the Russian Minister, has all imaginable Pains to dissuade our Court from the prosecution of these Projects, and has actually presented a Memorial, in which he endeavours to prove that the accession of the Duke of Holstein-Uten might be rendered of more real Service to the Interest of Denmark, than the reviving the Union of Calmar, which is however a Doctrine not like to prevail here. Our Fleet will be absolutely at Sea by the Middle of next Month, and we shall actually have 40,000 Men ready to take the Field, if Occasion should require it, to embark in the Month of May.

Naples, March 12. The present State of Affairs embroils our Court exceedingly. On the 4th, the Troops that were to have join'd the Army of the Count de Gages began to march. On the 9th arriv'd a Courier from the Hague, and on the 10th an Order was sent to those Troops from the War Office till they should know his Majesty's Pleasure. We continue fortifying this City as if we were on the Point of being attack'd; and some private Letters from Leghorn intimate, that Admiral Matthews actually intends a Bombardment, which astonishes our Ministers, who thought they had provided against all Accidents of that Kind. The King has refus'd the Grand Duke's Minister Leave to take Possession of the Princess Dowager Palatine's Estates in this Kingdom; but in very respectful Terms, and with a Promise to adjust all Differences with the Grand Duke in an amicable Manner.

Venice, March 23. The Austrian Reinforcements arrive daily in our Territories, and continue their March with the utmost Diligence to join Count Traun, who, on their Arrival, will have an Army of 24 Battalions, consisting of 800 Men each, and 40 Squadrons of Cuirassiers and Dragoons, exclusive of 1000 Hussars, and 2000 Croats. The Count de Gages, presuming that he shall be join'd time enough by the Neapolitan Forces, is actually making Dispositions for another Battle, but if he should be disappointed in his Views from Naples, it is not easy to guess what Measures will be left for him to take, unless to retire into the fortified Places on the Coast of Tuscany.

Vienna, March 20. Yesterday being the Feast of St. Joseph, and the Name-day of the Archduke, there was grand Gala at Court, and her Majesty's being with Child was publickly declared. The Reason of Count Khevenhuller's having full Powers to act during this Campaign without farther Orders, was his producing a certain Plan of Operation at the last general Council of War, which astonished all who were present; and one of the greatest Officers in Europe said upon that Occasion, that if his Excellency was left at full Liberty to execute that Plan, it must infallibly put an End to the War, to which all who were present agreed. The Archduke Joseph is to go to Prague, as he did to Presbourg when the Queen was crown'd there.

Berlin, March 30. There was grand Gala at Court on the 27th, being the Birth-day of the Queen-Mother, who then enter'd into the 57th Year of her Age. About Four in the Afternoon the reigning Queen, attended by all the Ladies of her Court, came to pay her Compliments to her Majesty on that Occasion. The Royal Family went to the French Comedy. In the Evening there was a Concert in the reigning Queen's Apartment, and at Night there was a grand Supper; the first Table had between 60 and 70 Covers, the Entertainment being disposed in the Form of the Letter S. Veldt-Marshal Count de Schwerin set out Yesterday for Franckfort on the Oda, and Count Altheim, Commander of the Order of Malta, who has been here some Time on a secret Commission, departed Yesterday for Dresden, from whence he is to go to Prague.

Manheim, March 29. Orders have been sent to all the Villages on the other Side the Rhine, to transport hither with the utmost Diligence all the Provisions they can. For some Weeks past we have worked very hard on the Fortifications of this City. Several Pieces of Cannon lately cast, and 600 Horses belonging to the Train, passed the Rhine a few Days ago, under an Escort of 500 Men, in their Way to Bavaria. A thousand or 1200 French Recruits have passed that River every other Day for this Month past, in their Way to that Country. We expect very speedily in the Neighbourhood of Cron-Weissenbourg and Lauterbourg 60 Battalions and 40 Squadrons of old Troops, drawn from Languedoc, Provence, Perigord, and Roussillon, which are to be followed by 20 Battalions and as many Squadrons, in order to watch the Motions of the Queen of Hungary's Auxiliaries.

P. S. We have this Moment Advice, that Part of this Force arrived Yesterday at Lauterbourg, and that the rest were in full March.

Disfeldorp, April 2. The English and Hanoverian Troops are disposing every Thing for their March. The first will pass the Rhine at Andernach, and the latter at Mulheim, over-against Cologne. It is the common Opinion here, that this Army will post itself between Alsace and Bavaria, in order to cut off the Retreat of the French from the last-mentioned Country.

Hague, April 5. There has not been known for 50 Years past, so great a Stir here as there is at present. Yesterday Morning Baron de Reischach, M. Preis, M. Greis, and Count Podelvies, Ministers from the Courts of Vienna, Stockholm, Copenhagen, and Berlin, confer'd each apart with the President of the Week. The March of our Troops to the Assistance of the Queen of Hungary is now talk'd of as a Thing certain, and that will will quickly take Place.

Extract from a private Letter.

Leghorn, March 13. 'You are desirous I should give you an Account of what the World is doing here, and there is nothing would give me greater Satisfaction than to oblige you. But the worst of the Matter is, that I am not really able to enter into any such Detail as you may expect. An Account of Affairs in Italy demands the Pen of a Machiavel, whereas my greatest Vanity never could, in my own Opinion, instate me more than a Minor Politician. What I can tell you I will, but in a plain rough Way, agreeable to my Employment; and this you may be sure of, that the less Ornament there is about it, the more Truth there is in it, and the Matter must make you Amends for the Workmanship.

'I believe Admiral Matthews imagined that the Spaniards intended to have let the St. Isidore, a 70 Gun Ship of theirs, which has lain some Months in the Port of Ajaccio in the Island of Corsica, perish there; but on his being informed that the Spanish Admiral at Thoulon had sent an Officer with a proportionable Number of Men to fetch her off, he detach'd on the 2d Instant, N. S. the Revenge, and the Anne Bomb-Vessel, to burn the Spanish Man of War as she lay. We bore right into the Port, and gave and received a Broadside; upon which the Spanish Captain perceiving

'that it was impossible to prevent the St. Isidore's being fired, resolv'd to do it himself, rather than allow us the Honour of it. But he executed his Design in a very slovenly Manner, for in about half an Hour's time the Ship blew up, and about 50 Men who were on board her, blew up with her. The rest of the Crew got on Shore before, and all might have been so, if the Captain had given proper Notice, or known what he had been doing. Two honest Fellows on board the Revenge had each an Arm shot off in the single Discharge of the St. Isidore, now in Ashes.

'As to the King of Corsica, as he calls himself, I don't well know what to say. His Behaviour is very engaging, he acts with Dignity, and without Affectation, borrowing his Authority from the Respect he imprints on such as are about him, rather than assuming any Air of Command himself. It is certain he was receiv'd with the utmost Joy and Satisfaction by the People, and by their Chiefs. He is raising considerable Forces in the Island, and this Morning there sail'd a Ship of some Strength, with 43 Officers, and a German Lieutenant-Colonel, recommended by General Breithwitz. It is suppos'd we shall soon know the Bottom of this Affair, and upon what Terms the Genoese are to quit the Island, for they cannot keep it long, the Inhabitants having an unconquerable Aversion to their Government. It is apparently an Island of great Importance during the present Troubles in Italy, and the securing it so as to preserve it from falling into the Hands of the House of Bourbon, is considered as a Master-stroke in Politicks, even by the Italians themselves, who tell me more than I shall tell you—that is, from whom this Stroke came.'

L O N D O N.

On the 22d of December died at Jamaica Mr. John Merewether, Agent to the South-Sea Company, and formerly a Merchant of this City.

Next Saturday his Majesty will review on Kew-Green a Regiment of Foot said to be the Highland Watch, who have been long expected, and are remarkable for their Highland Dress, &c.

Yesterday was held a Court of Directors of the East-India Company, when they postpon'd the Sale of Redwood, &c. which was to have been this Day, till the 8th of April.

The same Day Capt. Macclesfield, Commander of the Colchester, bound for Benjar and Bencoolen, took his Leave.

Leave of the Court of Directors of the said Company, in order to proceed on his Voyage.

Last Tuesday died Mr. Creemer, many Years Master of the Five Bell Tavern in the Strand.

On Tuesday last, about Eleven o'Clock in the Forenoon, ended the Assizes on the Crown Side, at Kingston upon Thames, for the County of Surrey, which prov'd a Maiden one, no Person being capitally convicted. Twelve were cast for Transportation, two burnt in the Hand, and four order'd to be whipp'd.

George Stead was try'd for cruelly using, and almost starving Mary Painter, his Apprentice Girl of 12 Years of Age; when after a Trial which lasted two Hours, the Jury found him him Guilty of the Indictment, and the Court fin'd him, and order'd him to be imprison'd for one Year in the County Goal.

William Cavenagh and Richard Keeble were try'd for breaking open the Shop of John Allen, a Pawnbroker at the Harrow Corner, and acquitted; but Keeble is detain'd by Order of Court, for returning from Transportation.

It is remarkable that there has not been a Maiden Assizes in that County for upwards of 50 Years; nor one Prisoner Executed on the Home Circuit, and no more than Ten receiv'd Sentence of Death.

This Morning, about Two o'Clock, the Corpse of his Grace the late Archbishop of York, was privately interr'd in a Vault under the Chancel in St. Margares's Church, Westminster, by the Remains of his Lady.

This Morning Admiral Vernon sets out for the Bath.

A Historical DICTIONARY

Of all RELIGIONS from the Creation of the World to this Present Time, Compiled from the best Authorities, both Antient and Modern.

By THOMAS BROUGHTON, A. M.

Reitor of Sibington in Huntingdonshire.

I need not point out the Usefulness and Entertainment of a Work of this Nature, which is designed to present the Reader with a general View of Religion among all Nations, and in all Ages of the World. Here he may trace it from its native Purity and Simplicity in the Patriarchal Times, to its present Corruption in the Romish Church. He may view it almost totally obscured by the dark Idolatries of the Heathen World; dimly shining thro' the ritual Veil of the Mosaic Law, breaking forth in meridian Lustre under the Gospel Dispensation, and blended with the absurd Inventions of the Imposter Mahomed. He will have the Pleasure of tracing the Globe, and taking a Survey of Religion in its present State, as profess'd by every Nation of which we have any Knowledge. In most Places, it is true, he will find Superstition usurping its Seat, and the Essence of true Religion almost lost in Shew and Ceremony.

In the carrying on this Work, Recourse has been had only to the best and most approv'd Authors, and Care has been taken to omit nothing Material, to insert nothing Superfluous, and to draw up the Whole with the utmost Brevity. For the rest, to render the Subject as Entertaining as possible; the Articles, wherever they will admit of it, are embellish'd and enliven'd with Passages of the Classical and Polite Authors, ancient and modern, especially the Poets, with the Sentiments of Philosophers and Divines, and with the Relations and Descriptions of Voyagers and Travellers.

See the AUTHOR'S Preface.
Printed for C. Davis, over-against Gray's Inn Gate in Holborn; T. Harris, on London-Bridge; J. Fletcher at Oxford, and W. Thurlbourn at Cambridge.

Admiralty-Office, March 25, 1743.

WHEREAS Fifty of the Seamen late belonging to his Majesty's Ship the Defiance, have been turned over to the Alderney at Hull, and a like Number to the Alderburgh at Liverpool, and Tenders are now at Sheerness, ready to carry them to their respective Ships; the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty do hereby strictly charge the said Men immediately to repair on board his Majesty's Ship the Princess Royal at the Nore, where they will be paid the Wages due to them for the Defiance to the 31st of December, 1741. and then to proceed in the said Tenders to the above-said Ships. And the said Men are to take Notice, That the afore-mentioned Payment is to be made on board the Princess Royal on the 5th of next Month; and in Case any of them fail to be then on board that Ship, the Tenders will sail away without them; after which they will not only lose all the Wages due to them for the Defiance, but will be taken up, if they can be found, and tried at a Court Martial as Deserters.
